

For Immediate Release

Photo: Cybele Lyle, Untitled (Shifted Headlands, B3), 2011, archival metallic digital print, edition of 5

Exhibition: “In the Common Corner of Four Rooms”

Dates: October 28 - December 10, 2011

Opening Reception: Friday, October 28th, 7-10 pm

Artists: Dana Hemenway, Cara Levine, Cybele Lyle, Emma Spertus, Hillary Wiedemann

Statler Waldorf Gallery is pleased to present “In the Common Corner of Four Rooms,” curated by Christina Linden.

As an artist-run exhibition space in a private residence, Statler Waldorf Gallery is an apartment that takes on a different reason and a different life at an opening than it might on most other nights. Responding to this shifting nature, five artists from San Francisco present work that also acts more generally on the idea of changing the character of a space by thinking it so. Strategies of display, illusion, and concealment extend the experience of change beyond singular contemplation.

Statler Waldorf Gallery is an artist-run exhibition space located in a private residence in Echo Park. We are open by appointment only. For more information, please email: info@statlerwaldorfgallery.com.